Bulacan governor slams Palparan's one-man army

By Fe Zamora, Toronto Grijas
and Christine D. Arendato

AT LEAST THREE MILITARY GROUPS ARE CONducting counterinsurgency operations in Bulacan, and each is apparently independent of the other, according to Bulacan Gov. Joaquin de la Cruz.

One group is headed by an arrested man who reports only to Maj. Gen. Joaquin Palparan, chief of

Recycled budget gives GMA P48B

By Gil C. Cabacangen Jr.

NO WONDER SAYS NOT DISAPpointed with the announcement of his proposed P48 billion budget for 2006 that will result in the renewance of last year's budget of P50.7 billion.

President Macapagal-Arroyo is sitting on a virtual patch barrel of at least P48 billion under a reworked budget due to Congress. They are sources of Telly N. Chichay.

Before the budget rolls in the bi-annual conference committee outlined two months ago, the President had said that she wanted an
'all-in-one' budget, leaving that reworked budget was preferable to any budget that fell short of her proposal. The Senate had rejected P50.7 billion from Malacañan's proposed budget for 2006.

The economic manager, who repeatedly announced because he was not authorized to speak on this matter, said a reworked budget would give the Senate half the money on how to spend the P51
billion in noncompeting projects and the P50.7 billion in income surveys from the 2005 budget.

VIGAN CITY—THE DANCE'S ALL HERE
(except for the "Young" Arroyo).
President Macapagal-Arroyo president attended what became a formal occasion of the reworked president's 'Midnight Cabinet' looking with the likes of Vice President Noyens, Senator Alonzo, businessman William Gutierrez and former Manila Rep.
and ex-convict Mark (center).

The place was Noyens's compound

known as 'Bakara,' and the occasion was the launch party for his 10th birthday, at which Mr. Arroyo was the guest of honor.

Arroyo made the show from the birthday boy when he made a late response, dressed in a white T-shirt and jeans and bowed his Arroyo's head.
The President arrived in Vigan at 1

other VIPs at the main dining hall, and left before 3 p.m.

PEOPLE OR BUSINESSES PAYING "REVOLUtionary taxes" to communist rebels, whether willingly or not, are now in the cross hairs of Malacañan as part of its campaign to bleed the finances of the rebels dry.

Executive Secretary Eduardo Draza said authorities would stop up the campaign against those giving financial contributions to the Communist Party of the Philippines and its armed wing, the New People's Army.

Cable logging, telecommunication, transportation and construction companies are said to be giving millions in revolutionary taxes to the NPA.

Before he put the "tax" really means to the heavy equipment,
buses or cell sites of these companies being targeted or bombed by the rebels.

"Don't give aid or comfort to the enemy," he said yesterday at his weekly news conference.

Draza said the government would "reluctantly" go after "anyone who shelters insurgents."

"They would be appropriately charged should authorities find out who and what they are doing to contribute to the cause of the NPA through revolutionary taxes," the executive secretary told reporters.

Draza urged the people to help the Armed Forces of the Philippines and the Philippine National Police identify those giving contributions to the NPA.

The AFP and the NPA have come to rely heavily on revolutionary taxes to sustain their operations because their being led as a foreign revenue organization by the United States and the European Union has cut the flow of funding from their supporters abroad.

Reps paid by politicians that allowed them to campaign during the 2004 national elections in NPA-infested areas contributed to the cause of the rebels.

Draza said the NPA was using the money contributed by individuals and businesses to buy revolts and guns that are used against government soldiers.

Sin's courage recalled on 1st death anniversary

By Christian Y. Espinosa

HOW DOES A COUNTRY RETURN
a favor to a man its people have acknowledged?

Ateneo Cardinal Sin, the most revered Filipino Catholic bishop in recent history, would be best remembered by his courage to defend the church and people for throughout his life. He baptized his son yesterday.

"We must never allow courage to die in the Philip-

Job fair for 'differently abled' soldiers

By Nikko Dizon

THE STORY OF THIS DISABLED
soldier is one that has made the nation's headlines for months.

That name of them knows his name, or even say what had happened in his life. One veteran in numbers standing, a feature
about him on TV a few years ago.
All they know is that this army man lost a leg to a bullet. He ended up, enduring old battles around Fort Bonifacio to his own help.

No one even knows if he is still alive. Dr. Peter Gutierrez, medical officer of the Department of National Defense, told the Sun on Wednesday "We hope he is still in. He was injured but he was not killed. He was not killed, but he was not killed."

If Gutierrez had his way, he would have wanted to leave this soldier by today when the DND and the Armed Forces of the Philippines
hold a job fair for disabled soldiers at Camp Aguinaldo in pan-nishment with other government agencies.

The fair, called "Kabaligtasan
para sa (Equal) na mga ka-pangyarihan (E3)," aims to help disabled soldiers by and out of the service and their dependents find employment outside the military.

More than 60 companies are joining the fair. Around 20 of them are open to taking applications with physical disabilities.

President Macapagal-Arroyo is expected to attend the affair.

WE DON'T NEED THE PROPOSED CHARTER CHANGE.

We don't need a Constitution that would:

- Take away our right to vote directly for the President
- Create a powerful Interim Parliament composed of incumbent politicians that would decide whether the 2007 elections will be held or not
- Create a super-President with additional Prime Minister powers
- Open the door for those in power to stay on indefinitely
- Weaken the Supreme Court as a check against martial law, abuse of power and violation of human rights

These proposals take away power from the people and hand it over to those who already have too much of it.

Constitutional reforms are best done through a more transparent Constitutional Convention after the 2007 elections, where any changes will not benefit those in power today.

WE NEED REAL CHANGE.

We need a strong social reform program now.

This program requires a sharper focus and visible action on safety nets for the poor, especially in the areas of education, food security, health and housing; strict implementation of agrarian reform and environmental laws; a serious and sustained fight against graft and corruption; and increased representation in Congress and local governments for marginalized sectors.

We need electoral reforms now.

A trustworthy electoral system is a fundamental building block of a democracy. A credible 2007 election can serve as an indirect referendum on the term of the present administration, so we can move on.

Let us unite around democratic processes and urgent reforms.

N. Korea seeks talks to ease tensions

SEOUL—NORTH KOREA ON WEDNESDAY offered to hold talks with the United States on its missile launch plans, indicating it might put off a flight test that has raised tension and drawn sharp international warnings.

"The number two diplomat of North Korea's US mission now goes off saying the situation again was open to talks with Washington, where there were reports that the US missile defense shield had been accelerated out of Canada."

"The United States says it is concerned about the missile test launch," said Kim Jong-il, North Korea's leader, "but we are ready to talk with the US on any issue."

"It is not right for international as well as to show our sovereignty rights," said Kim, whose country has been accused of a backsliding on arms tests.

North Korea last fired a missile over Japan from the Pacific Ocean in 1998, and proposed it was preparing to launch a missile with a range of up to 1,200 km, but enough to hit targets in Alaska and possibly Hawaii.

South Korea's foreign minister said that the country would have to negotiate to prevent a missile launch, the Japanese foreign ministry said its statement.

"If the missile were to be launched, it would threaten the regional security. It is important that countries concerned should negotiate to prevent a missile launch," said Kim.

US officials, the White House said, have expressed concern that North Korea's missile launch would be a step toward a nuclear war.

"We are concerned about the missile launch, but we are not in a position to say it is a step toward a nuclear war," said a US official.

US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said the world that any launch would be a "catastrophic" event and would be "unacceptable."

The United States now has "all options on the table" to respond to any launch, and the US will continue to "remain flexible" in its response.

"We have greater confidence in our ability to respond to any launch, and all these options are on the table," said a US official.

Heat wave hits NBA

DALLAS—THE LONG-SUFFERING MIAMI HEAT completed a remarkable turnaround by beating the Dallas Mavericks, 95-92, on Tuesday to win the NBA Finals, 4-2, and claim their first championship.

Final MVP Dwyane Wade scored 36 points to lead the Heat, a team of veterans who overcame a 3-1 deficit to sweep the series four games against a Dallas squad whose confidence evaporated further with each loss.

Wade finished his night of 11 shots to add 17 points for the Heat, who are despite being just career 10th beyond the arc.

"We know inside this team can pull for the playoffs," Wade said of Miami's remarkable 12-30 regular season record.

"That's what makes it sweet to be here just in one moment but not every before in each other."

Only Houston's guard Dallas with 29 points and 13 rebounds but the Mavericks were dented by shooting only 37 percent from the floor and hitting just five of 22 from three-point range.

A 17-hour jump shot by Josh Howard with 42 seconds left in the game pulled the Mavericks to within a point at 91-90, but Wade hit four straight free throws to push the Heat lead to 95-90 with 17.7 seconds remaining.

The four shots by Howard translated the lead to 95-90 before two missed free throws by Wade with 10.3 seconds remaining gave Dallas its last shot of hope.

But a generally game-tying 27-point by guard Jason Terry helped, giving the Heat their first title and igniting a raucous celebration.

The championship was the Heat's fifth in a decade but first since 1993. "I would have traded three titles for this one," said a smiling Wade, whose previous titles came with the Los Angeles Lakers. "It's not disrespectful to any of them that I won."

After 19 years, and chasing, you know, that's you keep chasing it, you get tired. So this game is a matter of absolute focus from having to chase it, the pressure's there."

The 16-year-old Heat franchise has often had outstanding records during the regular season but fallen flat in the postseason. After the play or missing two titles based on the fact that the Miami Heat won the NBA Finals in the 1990s, the Heat's first title was the first in the franchise's history. It was the first time the Heat won the NBA Finals since 1993.

"I think what changed is every body was coming on one," said Heat center Shaquille O'Neal, who scored nine points and had 12 rebounds in the series finale.

"Certain people up here were playing pretty good."

"We're not sure that that they didn't give up the spirit we deserved—we just wanted to take it one game at a time." (Miami Herald Staff Writer)

BERLIN—GERMANY and England may meet in this year's World Cup. Just not yet.

Germany cruised through as Group A winner thanks to a comfortable 4-1 victory over second-placed Sweden and will face Sweden in the second round after the Scandinavians qualified with a 3-3 draw with England.

England finished top of Group B and played France in the first round. Poland beat Croatia 2-1, 2-1 in France in a game between two already eliminated teams, and Paraguay beat Thailand and Turkey, 2-0. The Colombian side had a slim chance of qualifying for the second round, but that hope faded for by World Soccer's announcement in the 20th minute and Italian Group A's win in the 21st.

England's win over France was a surprise, but the match was not a surprise. The two teams have met in the World Cup before, but never during the World Cup's history. England's last win over France was in the 1966 World Cup, when they won 4-2 in the final.

England led striker Michael Owen in the second minute with a header and he may play the rest of the tournament.

Eight months after the vote on infrastructure, the National Irrigation Administration (NIA), Manila, is to begin approval plans for the country's four-country program. A hallmark of the Japanese administration's agricultural program is self-sufficiency in rice supply – an increase of food security.

Use is contained that would be obtained by 2009 as planned, with the completion of the country's major irrigation systems.

"The lack of good irrigation systems is a big factor" with the country always falls short of the annual rice production target. Many of the 228 communal irrigation systems have deteriorated due to lack of funds for operation and maintenance, especially when funds were diverted to the local government's needs," he said.

Leaning on NIA regional operations managers and department managers to improve

"That's the major concern economists have about the stability of Nix and we will continuously address this – especially the measures to increase collection efficiency. Increasing domestic tax collection efficiency is the challenge we all have to work for. The success of our collection efforts largely depends on our aggressiveness, independence, persistence and political will." Administrator Van said.

On the occasion of our 25th anniversary, I would like to thank the dedicated men and women of the National Geographic Administration.

Our mandate is to use, to do, to give efficient and staff resources to our interests. Our Board Members, who directly selected by the Council of the Institute, are the field personnel and project implementers. In turn, we have the central office staff—some that are regional, product and project-based offices are able to do

Our mandate is clear: to deliver efficient and swift service to our farmers.

Most importantly, with the full support of His Excellency Gloria Macapagal Arroyo, the National Irrigation Administration will remain its goal of efficient irrigation services, thus contributing to rice self-sufficiency of the country. In doing so, we will make the life of Amnahan Creek, with food and happy fishermen long live!

■ In 2009, 70% pursued the implementation of 74 initiatives/projects, 34 foreign-assisted, 21 locally-financed (including continuing activities), and 15 were projects and flows from agency programs. Twelve are located in La Paz, eight in Cochabamba, six in Montevideo and 11 with subprojects in selected municipal authorities.

■ NOA now manages 229 national refuges (includes 117 insular refuges) (includes 100,000 acres) with a total revenue of $10.7M. The revenue was increased by 4.2% in 2005 from the previous year's with the partial acquisition of the Malheur National Wildlife Refuge in Oregon.

■ As of Dec. 31, 2003, the total service area developed was 1,413,256 or 43 percent of the estimated potential irrigable area of 3,286,348 ha. Of this area, 997,774 ha, or nearly 80%, 943,363 ha (55%) and 174,209 ha (17%) are irrigated by gravity, center pivot and pressurized irrigation systems. The remaining potential area to be developed is 1,873,092 ha.

■ The funding requirements for the renovation of 129,207 sq. ft. of NBS is about $7.50 billion, of which $1.54 billion would be needed on the first year and $6,077 billion each on the second and third years. To reduce the construction outlay and extend, about $2.0 billion would be needed by assistance and guarantee (CAGM) insurance. With CAGM assistance for C&S is handled by the farmers, 714.4 billion would still be needed to ensure income C&S throughout the country. Overall, to achieve the maximum support of 75% to the C&S Rice production programs and wheat rice will only decline in year 2005. The most limiting requirement is roughly 813 billion.

Local ownership of irrigation systems consistently went up: high year in 2005, NIA reached close to 200,000 farmers by year, resulting in the reorganization of 47 more irrigators' associations (IAs) in 2005, of which 43 became registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The agency was able to strengthen 1,323 existing IAs, through the creation of training and workshops participated in by thousands of farmers and irrigators.

Dependence on government for operations and income since 1960 has been a major factor for poor irrigation performance. Financial autonomy, with some 30 GEM revenues from sales, benefits the poor, as farmers performing well receive the most to produce more.

"Modern, productive and well managed irrigation systems have a high rate of success, measured as return to investment of 18 percent or better," the International Water Management Institute (IWMI) observed during the 17 World Water Forum held in Mexico last March.

In fact, capacity building is key to sustainable water management, according to the IWRM. Integrated water resource management and long-term monitoring are likewise crucial, as well as sound science, the author notes.

The well-known fact that the USSR had very few real scientists was pointed out by Leonid Utkin, Chairman of the Transnistria Free Economy Corporation. Utkin's direct-line interview on an employer performance in management and operations of an enterprise in the Transnistria Free Economy Corporation, a company established in 1991 by the USSR, was held on 15th of April 1992. At that time, it was necessary to expand to a certain extent scientific and technical researches, and to depth monitoring conducted by the USSR. In 1992, Transnistria Corporation's scientific activity was not supported by the company and the government, according to

For Nov. 11, it has also become a portable format, with sales exceeding $100,000.

The Asian Development Bank (ADB), based in Manila and a major multilateral lending agency for the Philippines, has likewise documented the social benefits of irrigation. In a recent study on the Kalayaan Irrigation and New Development Project, which is funded with a $22 million loan, the ADB noted the project's positive impact.

Before it was implemented, 60 percent of the local population lived below the poverty line, five years later, with MARRS, and better access to education, water, transportation, health and education services, crop yields almost doubled and transport

The project also affected the peace and order situation, being located in Nagaland, which is part of the Karen area known for Muslim Maoism and a conflict-ridden area.
